EXPECTING MANY MORE VETERANS

Virginia Finds Many More of her Old Soldiers Want to Come to Gettysburg for the Celebration. Plenty of Room for All.

Virginia reports that 2500 veterans will come to Gettysburg for the anniversary instead of 1800 as first estimated. Pennsylvania will have 20,000 instead of 15,000, and other states are reporting proportionate increases. All will find accommodations in the big camp according to a statement made at headquarters and no veteran need fear that he will fail to get food and shelter while here.

"It is true," was the statement at camp, "that we made all our estimates on the basis of 40,000 veterans but we made most liberal allowances. These tents are built to receive eleven men. We allowed only eight to a tent. By putting two more in each one, you find that we can place 10,000 more veterans under canvas. With the food supplies the same principle has been followed. We are providing rations for 40,000 but the allowance is so liberal that it will do for many more."

"For instance, we allow a pound of bread a day for each man. The Regular Army man eats this amount, but not the private citizen. We allow three square meals a day for each of the 40,000. Not one man in a hundred eats three full meals in twenty-four hours. Everything is on the same plan and we can handle 10,000 additional both in tent and at table without any difficulty whatever."

The system at the camp is something of which the layman has no comprehension whatever. Captain McCaskey, who is one of the assistants of Major Normoyle, has planned an immense chart which shows the arriving time of every body of veterans and the time of their expected departure. It also shows what cooks are in the various kitchens, whether white or colored, civilians or enlisted men. The whole affair is worked with different colors of tacks and a glance at the board shows just how many veterans are in camp and who is caring for them. A similar chart shows the amount of work done each day of every sort, and how near it all is to being completed, together with how far ahead, or behind schedule time each department of the work has progressed.

The entire system is now two days ahead of the required time and the camp will be in readiness just forty-eight hours in advance of the time specified. All goods not perishable will be distributed to the kitchens not later than Saturday and immense quantities of supplies are coming in daily.

The first real delay in pitching the tents was encountered on Monday when many of the stakes started to break when they were driven into the dry ground. Rapid progress was made when the first two thirds of the stakes were driven as the men were working in wet ground and they went in easily. Now, however, they have stakes and tents shipped here from Chattanooga and some delay has been experienced. All the tents will be in place, however, in ample time.

Vice President Marshall on Monday designated as a Senate committee to attend the Gettysburg semi-centennial ceremonies Senators Newlands, Bankhead, Snively, Du Pont, Thornton, Nelson, Works and Bradley. The Senate had designated the Vice President himself as a member of the committee.

Get More Money
Provision was made in the State Senate Monday night to care for all veterans who may attend the semi-centennial of the battle of Gettysburg in excess of 40,000, the number for which provision was made. An item of $35,000 was inserted in the general appropriation bill for the purpose of meeting the cost of transportation where veterans are entitled to it, and quarters and subsistence at Gettysburg.

This action was the result of a conference held by Governor Tener and Col. Lewis E. Beiter, secretary of the commission, and makes the total Pennsylvania appropriation $450,000, separate appropriations having been made for the State's share in the cost of the camp for the veterans and for the transportation of veterans recognized as entitled to that privilege from Pennsylvania.

EVENING PARADE A GOOD FEATURE

Sons of Veterans Produce Attractive Evening Parade on Prep Campus before Admiring Crowd. Band Concerts Every Evening also.

Evening parade proves to be the most attractive feature of Camp General O. O. Howard and the Sons of Veterans, from the commanding officer down to the newest recruit, are receiving congratulations on the fine appearance of the division in their daily dress parade on Prep Campus. The review of the five battalions makes a very fine display and will doubtless continue to draw big crowds to the north end each evening.

With all the form of the regular military code the young soldiers in their dress uniforms of blue go through the various evolutions, the Marine Band of Allentown furnishing the music for the parade. "Onward Christian Soldiers" and the stirring "Adeste Fideles" play a prominent part in the musical program which concludes with the usual review before Colonel Henry Stewart and his staff, after the sounding of "To the Colors" and the firing of the sunset gun.

Prep Campus is an ideal place for the evening parade, being sufficiently large to accommodate the many companies and with the ground level enough to allow unhampered movement.

From reveille at six o'clock in the morning until taps at 11:30 at night the young soldiers are given plenty to do. Breakfast is served at 6:20 and from then until ten o'clock guard mounts and battalion drills occupy their attention. By the time things are straightened out in individual tents and company streets it is time for the noon mess and then the boys are free until five o'clock.

The majority of them are taking the afternoons for tours of the battlefield, many securing guides and making a careful study of the field. Evening mess is at five o'clock and soon afterward is the first call for the evening parade. Each evening at seven o'clock this will occur with the exception of Wednesday when the parade will be held through town starting at 6:30.

The Marine Band of Allentown gives nightly concerts in front of division headquarters. This organization has already earned quite a name and its concerts prove strong drawing cards. On account of the dance in Xavier Hall there will be no concert this evening.

The camp is visited daily by large numbers of people many of whom are here to attend the meetings of the civic body of the order and of the Ladies' Auxiliary both of which hold their opening sessions on Wednesday morning.

ANCIENT BARN

Repaired County Barn Erected a Century ago.

Sev. Scheivert and William H. Diehl, stone-masons, Saturday completed repairs to the large old bank barn on the farm of Charles J. Delone, Esq., near Square Corner, Mountpleasant township. While working at the gable end of the barn, an inscription was found on a piece of plaster, giving the name of the builder, with the date, "1813." The letters were too indistinct to indicate the builder's name properly, but the date was quite legible, from which it is evident that the barn was erected a hundred years ago.

PRESIDENT URGES MONEY REFORM

For Second Time Reads Message to Congress.

NEEDED AS TARIFF AID

Change in the Currency System the Only Way to Benefit Revision, Congressmen and Senators Are Told.

Washington, June 24. — President Wilson, for the second time since his inauguration, appeared before both houses of congress in joint session and addressed them in advocacy of legislation which he deemed of an imperative nature.

The first occasion was last April at the opening of the special session of congress, when the president shattered the precedent of more than a century and appeared personally before congress, instead of sending a written message, to urge the immediate downward revision of the tariff. Monday's event was no less important and none the less interesting, the galleries of the house being crowded long before the entrance of Mr. Wilson.

The purpose of the president was to urge the immediate enactment of the banking and currency bill prepared by Representative Glass, chairman of the house banking and currency committee; Senator Owen, head of the similar committee of the senate, and Secretary of the treasury McAdoo. This Mr. Wilson did, emphatically and tersely, the delivery of his address from the speaker's rostrum, where Speaker Clark presided with Vice President Marshall at his side, and the entire formal ceremony lasting less than half an hour.

The president declared that congress, through the enactment of the pending tariff law, was about to set free the business men and industries of the nation and that this work must be supplemented by providing an elastic currency with safeguards to prevent the concentration and control of money in any one place.

He asserted that this reform of the currency would be needed now more than ever, in view of the new tariff conditions, and that congress could not shirk the duty of providing at once the means for business to take advantage of the opportunity presented to it in the Democratic revision of the tariff. He said further:

"It is absolutely imperative that we should give the business men of this country a banking and currency system by means of which they can make use of the freedom of enterprise and of individual initiative which we are about to bestow upon them. We are about to set them free by removing the trammels of the protective tariff.

"It is perfectly clear that it is our duty to supply the new banking and currency system that the country needs, and that it will immediately need it more than ever.

"We must act now, at whatever sacrifice to ourselves.

"We must have a currency readily and elastically responsive to sound credit, the expanding and contracting and credits of everyday transactions."

The administration currency bill was not introduced in the house as expected. Representative Glass explained that until some details were changed he could not present it to the house. He expects to introduce the bill this week.

The president's address was delivered to the joint session of congress. The members of the senate, led by Vice President Marshall and the Secretary of the senate, James M. Baker, marched into the hall of the house. The senators were seated on the Democratic side well to the front, while the vice president was received by the speaker and escorted to a seat on the platform.

Speaker Clark announced Representatives Underwood, Fitzgerald and Mann as members of the committee to escort President Wilson to the chamber. The vice president announced Senators Kern, Reed and Gallinger as the senate members.

When all was in readiness the president entered, bowed to his audience and immediately began the reading of his address. It was followed with the closest attention, both by the congressmen and the privileged persons who had gained access to the galleries.

Long before the capital doors were opened hundreds of persons lined up in a steady rain in the hope of getting in to hear the president deliver his address. Although the attendance had been rigidly limited, one card of admission being assigned to each member of the house and senate, and provision for the president's family and the cabinet circle, hundreds clamored for admission.

PRESIDENT SIGNS SUNDRY CIVIL BILL

Would Like to Have Vetoed Labor Union Item.

Washington, June 24. — President Wilson signed the sundry civil appropriation bill, but in doing so made public a protest against the section of the bill which prohibits the expenditure of any part of a $300,000 department of justice item contained in the measure in the prosecution of labor unions and farmers' organizations for Sherman anti-trust law violations.

On March 4, when the sundry civil bill in the same form came to President Taft for his signature Mr. Taft declared the provision amounted to "class legislation of the most vicious sort," and vetoed it on the ground that he could not "be a party to writing such a provision into the laws of the republic."

In the memorandum which accompanied his signature President Wilson said: "I have signed this bill because I can do so without in fact limiting the operation of the power of the department of justice to violations of the law by whomsoever committed."

"If I could have separated from the rest of the bill that item which authorized the expenditures by the department of justice of a special sum of $300,000 for the prosecution of violations of the anti-trust law, I would have vetoed that item, because it places upon the expenditures a limitation which is, in my opinion, unjustifiable in character and principle. But I could not separate it."

MYSTERY IN GIRL'S DEATH

Pills Labelled "Quinine" Found Near Body Said to Be Another Drug.

Salisbury, Md., June 24.—With the closest secrecy police officials here are investigating the mysterious death of Miss Florence Wainwright, who was found dead in the office of the Home Gas company.

Miss Wainwright was a bookkeeper for the gas company and twenty-five years old. It is reported that the vital organs of the young woman have been sent to Baltimore for analysis.

Pills in a box, labelled "quinine," which were at Miss Wainwright's side when her body was found, are said to have been another drug. These are being analyzed. It is generally understood that death was not due to heart failure, as was at first supposed.

Glad to Get Back to Jail.

Ossining, N. Y., June 24.—"Hooryay! Take us back to Sing Sing!" There was real exultation in the voices of William Forbes and Maurice Clifford, two short-term burglars, who escaped from Sing Sing prison, when they were captured. They were trying to return to the prison, but had lost their way. Forbes and Clifford were covered with mud and their clothing was ripped and torn by brambles and barbed wire fences.

Little Girl Killed by Motor.

Metuchen, N. J., June 24.—Gertrude Baker, the four-year-old daughter of Thomas Baker, was killed by an automobile belonging to William F. Arnold, cashier of the City National bank, of Plainfield. The child was riding on a milk wagon. Climbing off, she stepped in front of the motorcar. Arnold was arrested.

GOOD ROAD MAXIMS.

Maintenance, maintenance and maintenance. Your road will go to pieces without it.

If the estimate is too low, then don't bid on the job. Keep away and save your money.

The improvement of a road enlarges the opportunity of those engaged in any kind of business contiguous to it.

Better roads should be the slogan in every community.

Get busy with your legislature for better road laws.

Every state should have a well organized road association.

THE PATROL SYSTEM.

Great Success of Government Test Near Fort Myer.

The office of public roads of the department of agriculture has been making experiments on an eight mile stretch of road in Virginia to demonstrate the results that may be obtained on country earth roads by continuous work under a patrol system.

A patrolman was employed to furnish a horse, cart and small tools, and he was supplied with a road drag built of plank and required to furnish two horses to drag the road whenever it was in suitable condition for dragging, usually following each rain.

The entire eight miles of road are well traveled, and there is considerable heavy teaming over parts of it. The United States cavalry stationed at Fort Myer frequently passes over a portion and batteries of artillery also use the road at intervals. A traffic census for three days last March showed the following daily average of teams traveling over the road: Loaded one horse wagons, fifteen; unloaded one horse wagons, fifty-eight; loaded two horse wagons, thirty-eight; unloaded two horse wagons, forty-nine; loaded four horse wagons, nine; unloaded four horse wagons, four; saddle horses, ninety-six; and motor runabouts, one.

The patrolman was paid $60 a month and $1 a day extra whenever he used two horses to drag the road. His presence was required on the road from 8 a. m. until 4:30 p. m., with one-half hour allowed for lunch.

The average cost of dragging last year was $10.11 per mile for six and a half months, which is at the rate of $20.74 a mile for the first year of twenty-four draggings, or approximately $1.25 per mile for each dragging of three round trips.

The use of the road drag has greatly improved the daily condition of the road and rendered it smooth and comfortable for travel for a greatly increased number of days in bad weather. The department expects to continue the experiment this year, for it is already apparent that the entire eight miles of road will show remarkable improvement under the systematic work of the patrolman.

Sir Humphry Davy.

Sir Humphry Davy married a widow as peculiar as himself. His pet affection was a lack of time. He was always in a hurry. He pretended that he had no leisure to dress himself, and when a change of linen became necessary he simply put one shirt over another until he was known to have on five or six shirts at a time. Of course he could not wear this amount of apparel without appreciably increasing his size, and his friends not in the secret were sometimes surprised to see him fall off in apparent weight twenty pounds in a day. His wife's great anxiety was to keep him "fit for company," but as he did not care a fig for company she had no easy task, and domestic discord was a common thing.

DEMANDS PROBE OF McNAB CHARGES

Congress May Act on California White Slave Case.

WILSON ASKS FOR FACTS

Resolution Introduced Calling For Papers and Explanation of Delay in Trial.

Washington, June 24.—Resolutions calling upon Attorney General McReynolds for all papers in the postponement of the white slave case in which Andrew Carmine and Maury L. Diggs are defendants, and the Western Fuel company cases, in the federal courts of California, were introduced by Representative Kahn, of California.

The resolutions are separate, the first calling for all the papers in the white slave case and the other for the papers in the fuel prosecutions.

Representative Hinebaugh, Progressive, of Illinois, also introduced a resolution for an investigation of the case. He wants the judiciary committee to hold public hearings on it.

President Wilson announced that he would ask Attorney General McReynolds for a report of all the circumstances which led to the postponement of the trial of Carmine and Diggs.

Because of this postponement John L. McNab telegraphed his resignation at United States district attorney at San Francisco.

The president said that he had no knowledge of the affair until he read it in the newspapers, but it appeared to him at first glance that the reason given for the postponement of the case—that the commissioner general of immigration, Anthony Carmine, might attend the trial of his son—was a humane one.

The president was of the opinion that the delay would not embarrass the case, though he declared that he would look into the question. McNab's resignation was put upon the president's desk and it was said it would be acted upon promptly.

The trial in the white slave case was postponed by Attorney General McReynolds at the request of the elder Carmine.

Mr. McReynolds refused to make any formal statement in reply to the sharp telegram of McNab because of the attorney general's action in holding up the trial over his protest not only of the Carmine-Diggs case, but the trial of the officials of the Western Fuel company for violation of the customs laws.

"This comes," said McNab in his telegram to the president, "after I have advised the department of justice that attempts have been made to corrupt the government witnesses and that friends of the defendants (Carmine and Diggs) are publicly boasting that the wealth and political prominence of the defendants' relatives will stay my hand through influence at Washington."

Anthony Carmine was appointed a month ago to be commissioner general of immigration, mainly, it was supposed, because of the assistance he gave to Secretary Bryan when the latter went to Sacramento to try to persuade the California legislature and Governor Johnson to modify the alien land bill to which the Japanese government had objected.

The trial of his son, which was to begin this week, has given him great concern. The manner in which the postponement was brought about was explained in a statement issued by Secretary of Labor Wilson, in which he said:

"The attorney general postponed the trial of the Diggs-Carmine case solely upon my request. I am, therefore, responsible for the postponement."

"Mr. A. Carmine has not recently assumed the duties of commissioner general of immigration. He has not yet fully familiarized himself with the duties of the office. He asked me for leave of absence in order that he might return to California to be present at the trial of his son."

"I insisted that he remain in Washington until he was sufficiently acquainted with the duties of the position of commissioner general to be able properly to inspect the immigration stations at Pacific ports when he suggested that I would ask the attorney general to postpone the trial of the case until the next term of court."

BILL TO PERMIT POOLING

Levy Measure Would Permit Railroad Combinations.

Washington, June 24.—Representative Levy, of New York, introduced a bill to permit the interstate commerce commission, in its discretion, to authorize combinations of contracts between railroads.

The permission is to be granted even though the combination be in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, if that consideration were outweighed by the benefits to the public. Virtually, it would permit pooling.

Capital Clubs to Be Dry.

Washington, June 24.—Washington's clubs soon will be as dry on Sundays as the Sahara Desert. All alcoholic concoctions will be absent from the tables of statesmen and army and navy officers. After July 1 the new Jones-Works liquor law, which applies only to the District of Columbia, will be in effect. Under the act it will be unlawful to sell or to give away liquor on Sundays.

YOUTH SHOOTS UP CRIMINAL COURT

Fires at Justice and Attorneys When Denied Release.

Washington, June 24.—Ray M. Stewart, eighteen years old, tried to shoot up the criminal court here when Justice Stafford refused to release him on probation after conviction for attempted robbery.

Before guards could overpower him, Stewart drew a pistol and fired three bullets perilously near Justice Stafford and the assistant United States attorneys, Given and Hawken. He was sent to jail then to answer the more serious charge.

Dashing toward Hawken and Given, the youth began shooting rapidly. One bullet whizzed by Hawken's head and was buried in a window sill behind Stewart was turning toward Justice Stafford when several policemen leaped upon him.

The court room was in an uproar and many persons dived for cover. The attack came so suddenly that few realized what was happening until the man had been overpowered. Hawken had prosecuted Stewart, but Given had not appeared against him. It is not known how the prisoner got the revolver.

Stewart attempted to rob the wife of a policeman, who was so frightened by Stewart's appearance in her room that she is now an inmate at the government hospital for the insane.

WILSON SMASHES TRADITION

Walks Bareheaded With Caller Out the White House Drive.

Washington, June 24.—President Wilson smashed another White House tradition. Bareheaded, he walked out the White House drive, almost to the gate to say goodbye to A. Popham Lobb, colonial secretary for Bermuda, one of his callers.

Mr. Lobb, who met the president in Bermuda, had been a guest of the Wilson family at the capitol and at a luncheon. When Mr. Lobb departed his automobile had not arrived, and he was walking out through the grounds chatting with his guest until they met the motor car coming from Pennsylvania avenue.

DESTROYER FAILS AGAIN

The Aylwin Fails Short of Contract Speed In Trial Run.

Rockland, Me., June 24.—The torpedo boat destroyer Aylwin failed for the second time in her official builders' acceptance trials.

Her contract requirement is 29½ knots, but her best mile in twenty-four runs over the mile course was at the rate of 29.15 knots an hour.

The destroyer will leave Rockland for Philadelphia, where she was built, for further alterations.

FLINN UNDER KNIFE

The Washington Party Leader Operated on For Gallstones.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 24.—Former Senator Flinn, Washington Party leader in the state, was operated on in the West Penn hospital for gall stones.

Mr. Flinn entered the hospital Sunday night. The operation was performed and, according to the hospital authorities, was successful. It was said that Flinn probably would be able to leave the institution and return to his home within a week.

It was not generally known that Senator Flinn was ill until last week, when the report became current that he had submitted to an operation. Mr. Flinn at the time denied that he had undergone any operation or that he intended to do so.

George H. Flinn, a brother, announced that Mr. Flinn was resting well and that he would probably be around within the next week. It was also said that the senator's illness, which caused him to spend the last winter at Florida and which at times had forced him to forego business and politics, was directly due to the ailment for which he was operated on.

Reichert. Of the two others, Dr. Richard Mills Pierce is in Vermont and Dr. Alonzo Englebert Taylor is in California.

It was announced that former Judge A. M. Bettler has become associated with Murdoch Kendrick for the counsel for the accused doctors and will have charge of the defense when the cases come to trial. John R. K. Scott will conduct the prosecution for the Women's Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

WILL LOWER THE COST OF LIVING

Great Economies Effected Through Improved Roads.

BIG SAVING IN HAULAGE.

Cotton States Could Afford to Spend $1,000,000 a Year on Highways, According to Government Bulletin—Poor Roads Cost Them Twice That.

Good roads are an important factor in the reduction of the cost of living. At least that is the theme of the latest farmers' bulletin of the department of agriculture, which shows that the benefit from improved highways does not accrue only to automobilists, but also to the farmer and the shipper of produce of all kinds. For instance, there are parts of the south, according to the bulletin, in which the time required for hauling goods to market has been reduced from twelve to two days by the improvement of the highways and a saving of $3 a day in driver's pay alone thus has been effected.

Really good roads would save the cotton states of the south approximately $2,000,000 annually in hauling charges, according to the department, which gives these figures to prove its contention:

"In the cotton states of the south the average haul of cotton from the farm to the shipping point is 11.8 miles. The average load is about 1,700 pounds—a little more than three bales—and the average cost is 80 cents per bale. The cost of marketing the 1911 crop of 16,250,276 bales was $13,900,220 if computed on the above basis. To each bale of cotton there is about half a ton of cottonseed, which was hauled from the farm to the gin, and then a large percentage of it hauled again to the shipping point. The average cost of hauling cottonseed in the United States is $3 a ton. The 1911 seed crop therefore cost $24,375,414 to haul.

"The total cost of hauling the cotton crop in 1911, including the seed, was therefore $37,375,634. Any system of road improvement throughout this zone which would reduce the annual hauling charge 5 per cent would effect a saving of $1,868,781 a year. From these figures it would appear that it would be good business to incur an expenditure for road improvement, even if such investment entailed an annual interest and maintenance charge of $1,000,000 to the community of cotton states."

"There are certain direct economic or money advantages which follow the improvement of public roads in every community," says Acting Director Sargent of the department in the bulletin. "These advantages are probably most apparent in the reduced cost of hauling."

"Certain dependent or reflex economic advantages also arise in a community where roads have been improved. The increase in the value of farm lands is an example of the indirect economic advantages of improved road conditions. It should not be considered, however, that in presenting the advantages of improved roads the direct decrease in the cost of hauling and the increase in farm values are entirely separate and independent. The farm increases in value partly because the cost of hauling is decreased."

"Whatever methods are used to improve a road, the improvement for hauling purposes is due to three causes—the betterment of the road surface, the reduction of the grade and the shortening of the length. On such an improved road the time required to haul a given quantity of material a given distance is reduced. The reduction may be largely due to increased speed of hauling, to increased load or to both. It is important to recognize that for transportation purposes reduction of time is equivalent to a decrease of the distance from the market centers. It is easy to see, then, why the increase of farm values must follow improved roads, for their effect is to bring the farms in a sense nearer the towns. The fact that on roads with improved surfaces hauling becomes largely independent of the season of the year or weather conditions means another very considerable reduction in hauling costs. It also means that many of the limitations of the number and kind of farm operations are immediately removed."

SUMMER COMFORT FOR THE STAY-AT-HOMES.

The first warm days bring disappointments to many of us who cannot join the general summer exodus from town, but who, for one reason or another, must stay in our houses or apartments during the warm months.

We can't all go to the mountains or seashore, but, by a careful and judicious expenditure, every woman can make a summer atmosphere in her own home if she chooses.

Rugs, heavy curtains, and draperies can be put carefully away, and in their place can be substituted a whole new set of things at a surprisingly low cost. There is an infinite number of fibre rugs in the market to fit any size space; there are dainty fresh, cotton curtain materials in charming designs; and as for cretonnes for furniture coverings, their beauty and variety are bewildering.

Just read carefully through the housefurnishing advertisements in THE TIMES and calculate for yourself how little these summer comforts would actually cost.

BIG HAIL STORM

Storm at Frederick Riddles Crops and Stamped Cattle.

A terrific hailstorm, accompanied by dashing rain and violent wind, Saturday evening swept Frederick County and damaged wheat, corn and fruit crops $200,000. Hail fell for fifteen minutes and some of the stones weighed several ounces.

Several persons in automobiles were severely bruised, the hail bursting through the tops like so much paper. Animals in the fields were infuriated by the pelts they received and broke down fences in their fright.

The damage to glass in homes and stores is estimated at $5000, while many houses were shaken out of plumb and barns lifted from their foundations. The rain fell in torrents for hours. The Security Plant of the Hagerstown and Frederick Railroad Company, which furnished electricity for traffic was out of commission for some time and all cars were hours behind schedule.

VALUE OF THE SILO ON DAIRY FARMS

Silos and silage mean more to the dairy farmer than most of us have any conception of, and in the future it will be used more than it has been in the past, writes Hugh Van Pelt in the American Agriculturist. Commercial foodstuffs have doubled in price during the last few years. The time has come when the farmer must rely more and more upon his own efforts to produce and preserve upon his own farm those foods that will supply the needs of his dairy herds. He must practice intensive farming in the broadest sense. That which in the past has been wasted will in the future measure to a great extent the profits. And I dare say there is no one thing that could be added to the farm equipment that would promote intensive farming so greatly as a good silo. The silo will make it possible to produce two pounds of milk where one was formerly produced, and in so doing fertilizing constituents will be made available that when returned to the land will increase the productivity in the same proportions.

Like any other farm improvement, however, the building of a silo incurs considerable expense, yet it is quite doubtful whether or not any other building can be built for the storage of roughness as will the silo. Comparing the digestive feeding nutrients, which indicate more nearly than anything else the value of foodstuffs, we find that one ton of clover hay, which

When people of nervous temperament retire for the night and cannot sleep it is usually because their brains are still active and refuse to part with the blood which should properly travel elsewhere. What the sleepless really need is a sloping bed, so that the congested head will relieve itself easily of the superfluous blood. For the upper part of the body, being heavier than the lower, inevitably sinks more deeply into the bedding, and even if one props the head on two pillows the neck is curved and strained and obstructs the backward flow of blood.

The Guernsey breed of dairy cattle is becoming very popular in this country because they are superior dairy animals and have the ability to yield rich, high colored milk. They are larger and more rugged, as a rule, than Jerseys and are in demand for building up milk herds from common cattle. The Guernsey cow does not stand for beauty, but for profit. She has no pronounced weak points and is admirably adapted to the conditions of the average farm. Guernseys are economical producers, and their milk tests high in butter fat. The Guernsey bull shown is Ledyard's Warwick, and he is owned by Cornell University.

requires the same space for storage as eight tons of silage contains 886 pounds of total digestible nutrients, while eight tons of corn silage contain 2,064 pounds. Thus two and one-third times as many digestible feeding nutrients can be stored in the silo space as in the hay mow.

Various crops have been used in the silo, but in states where corn is the principal crop this product alone will be found most satisfactory in making silage, for several reasons, the main one of which is that if corn is not put into the silo the stalks, which represent a large percentage of the feeding value of the corn, will be wasted. While clover or other grains which might be used for silage can be stored in a small barn or even a stack and as some dry foods are necessary with silage, the advantage of storing these in dry form becomes apparent.

In filling the silo there are many precautions which must be taken into consideration, and it will be found that to make good silage is more difficult than to make good hay. If allowed to become too dry before putting into the silo the corn fire fangs, while if cut too green it will be very sour. Either one of these conditions makes the silage unpalatable and lessens its value for dairy cattle.
